Generates and automates the printing process for labels, barcodes, RFID tags and plastic cards. Converts binary data, text, or numbers into patterns made of lines, dots, or squares. Barcode is one of the most commonly used methods to track sales and inventory. With this program, you can create and print custom barcodes, labels, labels, and other elements to manage your inventory and product sales. The program allows you to use your own databases to generate barcodes from them. You also enter data separately for each tag or barcode. To do this, create data entry forms so that the person who wants to print a label or set of labels must fill out the data that is codified in the barcode. The application also has several templates that you edit based on your needs. You also create your own templates to automate parts of the process and save time. The program has many different features and is not very easy to use. To learn how to take advantage of all its features, you should spend some time studying the manual and help files, especially if you're not familiar with inventory management processes. Nevertheless, if you manage large inventories and want to track them, you try this application. You use the demo version for 30 days. Please note that you will need to register your contact information to download this version. The installation wizard also requires downloading additional files to complete the installation. This may take a while, depending on the speed of your Internet connection.
